The Social Engagement Platform

ABSTRACT

The Social Engagement Platform (SEP), a workstream of the Alliance seeks to promote transparent, multi-stakeholder processes for water management. The objective is to create a mutual trust between all social sectors leading to a broad awareness of global and local water issues.

The workstream plans to use an approach to provide a simple, realistic and economically modest roadmap which ensures that; global problems find supranational, national, regional and local solutions engaging all members of society. Complex systems are translated to simplistic language, and data to knowledge and knowledge to action is achieved through the Quintuple Helix paradigm and systemic concept of multi-actor engagement, knowledge sharing, production and capital generation. The workstream works through sub-committees and aims to build local collaboration and co-creation of relevant actions through the establishment of Local Water Forums (LWF) which will result in progress along a pathway that is wide enough to encompass the needs of all.
